Commonwealth Atrius Cancer Center Offers Cancer Support Group—“Good Grief”

Commonwealth Atrius Cancer Center (CACC) at 51 Performance Drive in Weymouth, Mass., has started a free Cancer Support Group—“Good Grief”—on the first Monday of every month from 6:30 to 7:30 p.m. Led by CACC Staff Oncology Nurse Jennifer Mackenzie, RN, BS, OCN, this group is open to the public, including patients, family and friends, and those who have lost a love one to cancer. Good Grief focuses on all types of cancer and will feature topics such as dealing with chemotherapy and radiation, nutrition, hope, and how to talk to children when a parent is diagnosed. For more information, call 781-337-9091. CACC, www.commonwealthatrius.com, is a collaboration between Commonwealth Hematology-Oncology (CHO) and Atrius Health and is the area’s first comprehensive, freestanding cancer center with all non-surgical cancer services under one roof.
